The State Ticket.

That the verdict of the people in November, on the work done by the convention which assembled in the city of Detroit last week, will be favorable, there can be no possible doubt. Clean, honest, capable, vigorous and representative men, with not a single exception, were nominated. With such men, representing the various business interests of the state, as standard bearers, the Republicans of Michigan will march, invincible, to a magnificent victory. The campaign will be an aggressive one. Geographically, the nominees are well distributed throughout the state. The expressions of opinion all over the state regarding the ticket are invariably favorable, and the belief that an overwhelming victory awaits it in November is universal.

Hon. James M. Turner, the nominee for Governor, is a native of Michigan and 42 years of age. He is a large man physically, brainy, energetic, generous, just and popular, and we predict that as Governor he will be the peer of any who have preceded him.

William S. Linton, of Saginaw, for Lieutenant-Governor, is also a native of Michigan and was born 34 years ago. He was a member of the legislature of 1887 and is a bright, genial and deservedly popular man.

Rev. Washington Gardner, the candidate for Secretary of State, is well and favorably known throughout the entire state as one of its most brilliant and eloquent speakers. He was born in 1845 and served upwards of three years in the army, being seriously wounded at the battle of Resaca.

Hon. Joseph B. Moore, Michigan's next Treasurer, was born in Detroit in 1846 and is one of the most successful and enterprising citizens of the metropolis of our state.

THERON F. GIDDINGS, the nominee for Auditor-General, is a native of this state, having been born in Kalamazoo county in 1845 and is too well known to the people of South-western Michigan as possessing those qualities peculiarly fitting him for the proper discharge of the duties of the important office which he will soon be called upon to fill, to need further introduction at our hands.

John G. Berry, of Otsego county, the candidate for Commissioner of the Land Office, was born in New York in 1838. He has been a citizen of Michigan for many years and has served as State Senator. He was a member of the 16th Michigan Infantry during the war, enlisting as a private and returning as captain of company A of that famous regiment.

Benjamin Huston, of Vassar, nominee for and present incumbent of the office of Attorney-General, is a native of New York and 58 years of age. He served as a member of the 23rd Mich. Infantry during the war. He has for many years taken high rank among the able men of our state.

Prof. Orr Shurtz, of Eaton, was born in St. Joseph county in 1853. He will bring to the discharge of the duties of the high office of Superintendent of Instruction, large experience as an educator, a well trained and active mind and a progressive and enthusiastic friendship for our educational system.

James M. Baillo, for Member of the State Board of Education, has been one of its most active and valuable members for the past six years. His eminent fitness for the place is recognized and admitted by all.

Judge Edward Cahill, who was nominated to succeed himself on the Supreme Bench, was born in Kalamazoo in 1843. He served in the army during the war of the Rebellion. He is a good citizen and an able lawyer and has made a very favorable impression during the few months since his appointment upon the Bench showing that he is possessed of judicial qualifications in an eminent degree.

Republican state Platform.

The following is the declaration of principles adopted by the Republican party of Michigan, at Detroit, August 25, 1890, and presented to the voters of the state:

1. That the Republicans of Michigan heartily commend President Harrison for the dignity, wisdom and faithfulness displayed by him and his cabinet in administering the affairs of the Nation, both at home and abroad.

2. We applaud the patriotic course of Speaker Reed and the Republicans in congress for amending the rules so that legislation can proceed in spite of an obstructive minority, and we heartily endorse the course of our Senators and Representatives in congress.

3. We believe in the purity of the ballot-box, and that any abridgment of the right of suffrage is perilous to the safety of the nation, and we urge the speedy enactment by congress of such laws as shall protect every American citizen in the exercise of this sacred right.

4. We are in favor of such a revision of our national tariff laws as will protect producers, laborers and farmers against the ruinous competition of foreign productions and cheaper labor, and especially commend those features of the McKinley bill which provide for the protection of farm products as well as manufactured articles.

5. We endorse the action of congress in its legislation upon the silver question, and favor the unlimited use of gold and silver bullion as a basis for legal tender paper currency interchangeable with coin.

6. We endorse and commend the action of the Republican party in carrying out its pledges in relation to pension legislation.

7. We commend the able, economical and business-like administration of Gov. Luce.

8. We favor such changes in our state tax laws as shall provide for a more equal and just assessment of real, personal and corporate property, to the end that all property in the state not exempted shall contribute its equal share in maintaining the public burden.

9. We favor such a change in our tax laws as will compel no person to pay taxes on a greater interest in property than he owns.

10. We reaffirm the position of the Republican party, heretofore expressed in its state platforms, and we urge the passage of laws that will inflict heavy penalties upon such officers for accepting such passes, and upon any individual or corporation who shall give or offer to give them to such officers.

11. We favor the most rigid economy in the management of our state government and state institutions, and demand shorter and less expensive sessions of the legislature.

Washington Letter.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Aug. 29.

The president has returned to the White House greatly refreshed by his week's holiday at the sea shore, and plied into the pile of work that accumulated during his absence. He is greatly pleased that his advice was taken by the Republican senators, and that his political family is again united.

The Democrats have adopted a new method of filibustering in the House. When they are brought in to answer a call for a quorum they answer to their names and immediately sneak out again so that when the roll is called for a vote the House is again without a quorum. Opposition to the compound land bill is what has brought out this trick, and there are a few Republicans who have joined hands with the Democrats in order to prevent a vote being taken on the bill, its passage being certain if a vote is taken.

Representative Cannon, becoming tired of this sort of thing, offered a resolution reciting the circumstances, and mentioning the names of forty-four members, nearly all Democrats, as being guilty, and providing for the immediate revocation of all leaves of absence except in cases of sickness, and notifying the Sergeant at Arms to telegraph the absentees to return at once.

This resolution at once threw the House into the wildest disorder; thirty or forty members were on their feet yelling at the top of their voices all at once. Representatives Mason, of Illinois, and Walker, of Massachusetts, both good Republicans, are on opposite sides of this land question, and owing to a remark jokingly made by the latter there was almost a personal encounter;

Mr. Mason calling Mr. Walker a blanked liar and making for him to attack him. This was finally quieted, and Mr. Mason apologized to his friend Mr. Walker.

Unfortunately the trouble did not end here. Mr. Cannon, goaded to madness by the attacks made upon his resolution, made use of some language which he must have deeply regretted as soon as he had time to think. This caused Mr. Mason to reply in kind, and this quarrel caused another between Representatives Wilson, of Washington, and Beckwith, of New Jersey, which actually led to blows before the combatants could be separated. Truly the whole business is shameful, although the Democrats acted as though they thought it great sport, laughing and yelling worse than a lot of hoodlums at a dog fight.

It is understood that the conference committee is making rapid progress with the river and harbor bill, and that its report may be looked for next week.

Senator Plumb's resolution to stop the sale of intoxicating liquors in the Senate restaurant, after being burdened with several ridiculous amendments, and after a debate which was equally ridiculous, has been referred to the committee on Rules, which has control of the matter.

The senate will begin voting on the tariff bill and the amendments on Sept. 8th. It will probably be several days later before the bill is finally disposed of. The debate on this bill has already been longer than that on any similar measure in the history of the Senate. It is expected that adjournment will take place during the first week in October.

It will not be surprising if the President calls an extra session of Congress, to meet immediately after the November elections. Such a course is considered necessary by a great many Republican Senators and members, who foresee the trouble there will be in passing the Election bill, the Appropriation bill, and a regular appropriation bill at the short session, and who recognize the value of the three weeks which an extra session might make use of before time for the regular session to meet in December.

It is generally believed by Republican Senators that the first business of the Senate, when it meets after adjournment, whether in extra or regular session, will be to change the Rules. Of course, no one expects that it will adopt rules regarding debate as stringent as those used in the House; but it is practically certain that the majority will be given the power to end debate after it has gone on for a reasonable time. It is deeply regretted by most of the Republican Senators that it was not done at the beginning of the present session.

Republicans have excellent grounds for asking the people of the country to continue them in control of the House of Representatives. See the important measures which the House has passed at this session: the tariff bill, the silver bill, the federal election bill, the national bankruptcy bill, the bill relieving the supreme court, the bill admitting four new states, the original package bill, the meat inspection bill, the agricultural relief bill, the bill against adulterated food, the anti-trust bill, the public lands bill, and hundreds of minor bills. As soon as the Republicans obtained control of the House the prosperity of the country began to increase, and so it will continue to do as long as they retain that control. These are facts that should not be forgotten.
